

Liberty Nearly Wiped Out by Fire.

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)
The business part of Liberty is now in ashes. Every dry goods store and the Exchange Hotel were consumed by fire last night. The old Napier Hotel, W. T. Humphrey's drug store, and Wilkerson & Clark's drug store are the only business houses remaining. As you will get the full particulars of the loss from the Liberty Press, the publication of which is delayed for a day on account of the fire, I shall confine myself only to notes and incidents.

The disasters would have been much greater if it had not been for the favorable slight breeze, the friendly snow covering the roofs, and the heroic exertions. Even the females vied with the men in their efforts to arrest the devouring flames.

The colored people, too, used every exertion to save property.

The popular Lexingtonian, Tom Paine, endeavored himself to the citizens by his mainly work and judicious assistance.

While there were some narrow escapes no serious accidents happened, only to Mr. William Brown who had his hand badly mashed by having a table thrown upon it. Luther Raines and perhaps one or two others had their clothes to catch fire, but were saved from injury by having water dashed upon them. A young lady, working bravely, was saved the same way.

Three prisoners in jail became much alarmed on account of the smoke and sparks flying thick around them, but were pacified by the promise of the judge and jailer to let them out if the fire came dangerously near.

An old colored man, in his zeal to save property, carried an iron kettle about 150 yards in the suburbs to save it from burning.

The people appear cheerful and not cast down over their serious losses.

Some Highly-Prized Expressions From the Press.

POPULAR AND INFLUENTIAL.

The Stanford Interior Journal was 18 years old March 1. More than 15 years of its career it has been under the management of the present editor, W. F. Walton, and its popularity and influence attest the excellence of his management.—Louisville Times.

AGAINST THE FIELD.

The Stanford Semi-Weekly Interior Journal celebrated last week its entrance upon its 18th year, 15 of which it has been under its present able management. The Journal has taken a position among the first-class State papers second to none, and while western, northern and southern Kentucky boast of larger cities and papers, yet Eastern Kentucky nominates Bro. Walton's paper against the entire field.—Richmond Register.

AN EXCELLENT PAPER.

The Interior Journal has completed its 18th year. It is a most excellent paper. Fearless, independent and democratic.—Covington Commonwealth.

A. I.

That sterling periodical, the Interior Journal, was 18 years old March 1st and has been under the management of its present owner for 15 years of its existence. In the journalistic world that paper is classed A. I. May it continue to gladden our homes by its semi-weekly visits, giving the news and wholesome instruction in the years to come as it has in the past.—Mt. Vernon Signal.

Obituary.

Daniel K. Garrard departed this life on the 12th day of Feb., 1890.

He was the son of Gen. T. T. Garrard, of Clay county.

He leaves a father, five brothers and four sisters to mourn his loss.

He was less than 26 years old. A brilliant young lawyer, who commenced the practice before he reached the age of 21 years.

He was a young man with bright prospects for the future and a host of friends and admirers will be grieved to hear of his untimely death. After he is gone we see his true character plainer than ever before.

He was buried in the family graveyard, near the Garrard homestead, on Goose Creek, and with the gentle wooings of Spring to sing his requiem forever more he was laid to rest amid the fragrance of the first flowers of the year.

With the afflicted family we drop a tear.

In the busy harvest of death; in the years to come, there will be gathered into eternity no higher intelligence, no brighter spirit, no fairer soul.

His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him That nature might stand up to all the world.

And say D. K. RAWLINS, Barboursville, Ky.

—The great race between Sunol and Axtell has been declared off.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—The Danville Planing Mills Company have advertised their property for sale on the 31 of April.

—Some one made the remark that this is ground hog weather. We must acknowledge that he is a true weather prognosticator for once anyway.

—Mr. L. F. Copeland will lecture at the Opera House on the 13th. His subject is "Snobs and Snobbery." This is the last of the lecture course for this season.

—There is a lady visiting here, which seems funny to relate, who never saw a snow till she saw the fall of the present one. She has always lived in the extreme South.

—The time for registration is the 4th Monday in March. The books will be open three days. You will have to have a tax receipt for taxes due or else you cannot register.

—There has been a movement on foot to build an ice factory here, but the required amount of stock was not subscribed to build it and I understand it has fallen through.

—Funk & Anderson will have their planing mill running by the 20th of this month. Only men of push and energy could have erected a mill in so short time as they have.

—There was some ice gathered both in town and the country during the last week. Only those who have ponds to gather from could get ice, as the creeks and rivers have been too high to freeze much.

—Capt. Tom English, of this county, owns a mare which is 37 years of age this spring. Mr. English says she is as sprightly as a colt; can jump as high a fence as most any horse. He has not bred her for several years, but intends to this spring.

—During circuit court, which has just closed, Dick Bently was given 2 years in the penitentiary; Peter Cohn was given 1 year for breaking into Chrisman & McDowell's store. Judge Morrow went from here to Mt. Vernon to hold court.

—It seems that more than one of our colored tribe was "tired of this sojourn here" last Tuesday night. A woman on Mill Row concluded to commit suicide by jumping into a pond near by and drowning herself. After she jumped in she changed her mind and hallooed for help, which was given, and she was rescued. The reason for changing her mind was the water was too cold.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Fox have come in from the country and are boarding at Mr. Owsley's. Mr. G. D. Mahan has moved to his property, which he recently purchased on 3rd street, between Broadway and Lexington. He purchased the property of the Boyle heirs for $3,200. Messrs. John and Dan Yeiser, near town, had an auction sale of their household goods Thursday, preparatory to moving to Texas.

—Dr. S. P. Grant and wife, Albert Hammel and sister, Miss Annie, Misses Tinsie Boone and Boone Bush all attended the Patti concert in Louisville. Miss Minnie Walker, Kirksville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Cotton, near town. Messrs. Winston Wiseman and Sumner Roberts are both at home from Middleboro waiting for the water and snow to clear away from off their valuable dirt in that city. R. L. Myers, of Bockcastle, was here on business and to visit his old home at Bryantsville during the week.

—One of the most brutal tragedies that probably ever happened in this town was enacted on Tuesday night on 4th street, near the creek. On that night Marshal Hayden, colored, returned from his day's labor and greeted his wife by saying he was going to kill her and put an end to her devilment, at the same instant drawing a revolver and shooting her twice in the head and once in the wrist. She fell on the floor and then he seized a hatchet and struck her several blows on the head, fracturing her skull. Then he attempted to shoot himself, but the pistol would not go off. He then tried to cut his throat, but broke his knife, and falling in these he struck himself in the head with a hatchet several times, but did himself not much damage. The door was broken down by this time and the tragedy was ended. The only reason given by Marshal for the deed was jealousy. The woman is still living and if she dies there will probably be a hanging in these parts. Hayden has been arrested and placed in jail.

—On Tuesday last Col. C. D. Chennault bought of H. B. Dillingham his residence and farm, consisting of 130 acres of land for $50,000. In a few hours afterward Col. C. sold the same property to O. A. Harrison, of Louisville, for a syndicate of that city, for $78,000—$600 per acre. Mr. Thompson Keene, of this county, has probably the most remarkable ewe in the county. She has given birth to eight lambs within the last two years, all of them fine, healthy animals. R. H. Elkin sold last week a 2-year-old hick, 15 hands 2 inches high, for $1,100 and a jeannot and colt for $400. Tuley & Walker are delivering 2,500 bushels of wheat to Letcher & Co.'s warehouse at 75 cents.—Register.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

—The House tabled the bill to establish a State weather bureau.

—Hon. Evan E. Settle, of Owenton, has announced himself a candidate for attorney general.

—A bill requiring assessors to list the number of Bibles belonging to heads of families in the State passed the House.

—Harlan county asks for an act to enable her to issue $10,000 in bonds to build a court-house and the House has passed it.

—The House has passed the bill to reduce the State tax from 47½ to 42½ cents on the $100, the reduction to be taken from the amount assigned for ordinary revenue.

—With the new business introduced the House now has over 1,100 bills to consider; enough to keep the legislature in continuous session until the 4th of July.—Courier-Journal.

—An act to authorize persons having retail license to sell intoxicating liquors in cities and towns, to change their place of business and sell under the same license by complying with certain requirements, passed the House.

—Hon. R. C. Warren delivered his promised speech against the unconstitutional methods of calling a constitutional convention, which is highly praised by even those who do not agree with him. The Courier-Journal says: "Mr. Warren is a sound lawyer, and he argued against the bill from its legal points. He held the bill not an enumeration, and from figures showed that a majority of the whole people of Kentucky had not voted for the convention and that the conditions do not exist which would justify a revolutionary act."

—Treasurer Coleman, of Warren county, O., was given 2½ years for stealing $25,362 of the people's money.

—J. A. Givens is back from Atlanta, where he sold 5 cars of medium cotton mules at $90 to $130. The trade has been brisk, but it is considerably off now, he says.

—Sheriff Rogers, of Fayette, who tied the rope and pulled the bolt that shot Tom O'Brien into eternity, used to go to school with him and set on the same bench.

—J. C. Fox bought in Wayne county 146 head of 1,300 pound cattle at 3 to 3½ cents, and sold to James Kendrick 28 extra cotton mules at $88 and Bob Chesney 20 at $84.

—A lead of Kansas hogs sold in Kansas City a few days since were 10 months old and averaged 230 pounds. They were raised on alfalfa until six weeks before marketing when they were fed corn to harden the flesh.

—The peaches almost without exception are reported killed by the late cold, the thermometer at its lowest registering 12° above zero. The raspberries and strawberries are all right and apples are not far enough advanced to be hurt.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

—Hervey Scott, aged 84 years, a pioneer of that section, died at his home near Camp Nelson.

—Graham, the embezzling auditor of Warren county, was sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary and in addition must work out a fine of $126,422.18. At a dollar a day it will take him some 425 years to do the latter.

—Felix Kampf was executed at Charlestown, W. Va., Friday, for the murder of his son and daughter. He acknowledged his crime, but was certain he was going to Heaven. His was the first execution to occur in Kanawha.

—W. P. Walker, Jr., a Kentuckian, has been appointed to the important position of Freight Traffic Manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio, with headquarters at Cincinnati, and has resigned his position as Manager of the Kanawha Dispatch.

—The Court of Appeals decides that where a taxpayer refuses to list his property for taxation the assessor has no power to list it, but must report to the supervisors the refusal of the taxpayer to list; and if the assessor attempts to make the list his act is void, and the taxpayer can enjoin the collection of tax.

—James R. Watson, member of a milling firm at Henderson, and Capt. John Hildebrand, conductor of a freight train on the Ohio Valley railroad, were killed in an accident near Highland Creek. The car in which they were riding became derailed, and they jumped from it, but the car was turned over upon them, killing them instantly.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Mr. C. C. Howard, of the La Rue Herald, is the last of the members of the K. P. A. to join the matrimonial band. He was married to Miss Mattie Hansbrough, of Hodgenville, last week. May they live long and prosper.

—Two of his wives confronted Frank Whiting, of Ohio, when he went to the clerk's office at Marietta, O., to procure license to marry a West Virginia girl with whom he had eloped, whereupon his intended bride had him thrust into jail for bigamy.

—A Booneville, Ind., jury on Saturday after a sober deliberation of two hours, found for the defendant, Rachel Lewis, who was sued by Mrs. Edna Bake for $10,000 damages for alienating her husband's affections by means of a cake loaded with "love powders."

—Mr. Edward Davison and Miss Lettie Carson were married last night at the residence of Hon. Joseph B. Reed, the Rev. Mr. H. C. Settle officiating. The bride is from Crab Orchard, where her mother resides, and she was visiting in the city. Mr. Davison is employed in the office at Avery's plow factory.—Louisville Times, 8th.

—Charles W. Sterling, who made a business of marrying women and abandoning them after a month or so, has at last reached the end of his rope. He has just been landed in the Ohio penitentiary for two years with seven other cases against him. The record shows that he married eight women without being relieved of any of them by death or divorce.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—That Brooklyn father, who was arrested for letting his little child die of diphtheria and "faith cure," pleads in abatement the constitutional provision protecting every one in their religious beliefs.

—There have been 7 or 8 confessions at the Methodist meeting, which will continue at the usual hours all the week. Mr. Savage has made a deep impression on his hearers and the church has been greatly revived and benefited.

—Of the 211 Presbyteries of the Presbyterian church 51 have announced their votes on the overture with regard to the revision of the Westminster creed. One Presbytery voted neither for nor against the revision, but puts itself on record as wanting an entirely new creed. This is the Presbytery of Albany, in which there are 66 ministers and 9,775 communicants. There are 25 Presbyteries anxious for a revision; 15 oppose revision, 10 of the latter being in Pennsylvania.

INSTEAD of staying at Frankfort and attending to the business the people pay them to do, the legislators went over to Cincinnati on invitation of the mayor to attend the funeral ceremonies of Minister Pendleton. They got there late at night, expecting to be met with carriages and a brass band and a speech of welcome, but instead had to walk to the hotel and hunt up the committee to know what to expect or what was expected of them. After a long delay they were told that they might walk along in the procession if they would be good boys, but they must not expect to be hailed. No more attention was paid to them than if they had been ordinary, everyday men and the whole ship's crew bolted for Kentucky as soon as they could decently depart, cursing Cincinnati and trying to kick themselves for not staying at home and attending to their business. Served them right. Minister Pendleton could have been given the imposing sepulchre accorded him without their presence at the people's expense.

THE House Committee has favorably reported the direct tax bill recently passed by the Senate and it is almost certain that the very vicious measure will become a law. The minority of the committee used the veto message of Grover Cleveland on the question in their report against its passage, which is replete with forceful reasons why it should not become a law. The Louisville Times says: "Under its provisions Kentucky would receive something like $800,000, but before Kentucky's share is accepted our State Government should take steps to test the bill's constitutionality, in order to make sure that the State will not be called upon to refund the money at some future day, when it might be inconvenient to do so."

If all the general pension legislation which has been proposed by the introduction of bills in the House so far this session should pass it would take from the United States Treasury $675,000,000. Thirty-five millions alone would be required to meet the expenditures of the proposed Department Pension bill. If the republicans choose they can make the raid on the treasury to the full amount. They have all the branches of the government now, but their prodigality with the people's money is causing such a reaction against them that this will not long be the case. The next president and the next House will be democratic. That seems to be settled.

THE souvenir edition of the Middlesboro News would be a credit to any printing office and Editors Arnold and Dains are to be congratulated on an achievement that speaks wonders for the coming city. The beauties and advantages of Middlesboro are set forth in graphic style and the 26 pages of the edition are illustrated with cuts of men and things that have made the place famous. Among the pictures of well-known people in this section are those of Messrs. L. F. Hubble, J. P. Sandifer, W. E. Grubbs, E. L. Grubbs and D. G. Slaughter, all of which are easily recognizable.

THE Richmond Register has rounded out a quarter of a century of honorable existence. Mr. F. M. Green has been at the helm for 18 years and has furnished his patrons with a clean and conservative paper, which has long since become a power in its section. It is admirably edited and conducted on the highest principles. For the last few years the editor has been assisted by Mr. Clarence E. Wood, who is also a fine writer and a capable journalist.

WITH water, war everywhere, Louisville has a prospect of experiencing that there is not a drop to drink. One of the engines at the water works is broken and it will take a week to fix it, during which time the company urgently requests the citizens to "touch it lightly." This warning is, it seems, superfluous. What does the average Louisville man care for water when there is so great an abundance of whisky and beer on hand?

THE Owensboro Inquirer has a new head and the editor will soon have the big head on account of all the nice notices that the press is making of his candidacy for Congress. But our advice to you Bro. Givens is to steer clear of political aspirations, if you would save the risk of a final "bust-head."

THE mother of a soldier, who died after eating a pie bought during the war at Bardstown, Ky., has been awarded a pension. This is eminently right. The deadly pie has always been recognized as an instrument of war more terrible than the minnie ball.

THE Democrats of Illinois are considering the propriety of nominating a candidate for United States Senator at their State Convention next June, and then use their best efforts to elect a legislature that will in turn elect the nominee. Gov. Palmer advises the action and says that while he prefers that the party select some other man, he will not shrink if he is chosen, but will enter the race to win. The ex-governor's popularity has been frequently demonstrated by success against fearful odds, and stranger things have happened than what is hoped in this matter. Should he succeed in electing a democratic legislature he will immediately become a powerful presidential probability. He is a grand old man and worthy of any honor.

THE woman suffragists do not dwell in that sisterly love that should characterize their efforts to induce the world to believe that God Almighty had made a mistake in not making them men. Mrs. Chant, of England, and Miss Desha, formerly of Kentucky, a pair of short-haired old howlers for woman's rights, had a quarrel on the streets of Washington the other day, when the English female called the Kentucky monstrosity a liar. The latter could hardly repress her desire to "knock the stuffing out" of her assailant, but she restrained herself and used her tongue-lash instead. It was a beautiful and inspiring spectacle.

"JUSTICE" sends us a letter from Danville complaining of the Advocate for failure to give Judge Morrow's oral statement with reference to the injunction suit against Mr. Marrs, along with the written opinion. The high-toned manner with which the gentlemen have always conducted the Advocate since they have been in charge leads us to think that the omission of the statement must have been an oversight. Mr. Marrs was himself while in the newspaper business always so scrupulously fair that we cheerfully print the letter and believe that Bro. Woolfolk will set him right.

THE statement that Matilda Rudy, aged 123, died at Raywick last week and that her mother reached the age of 135 before she was called hence, must be taken with a grain of salt as it were. All the old negroes give their ages at from 10 to 25 years more than they are and there is never sufficient data concerning their birth to establish the fact of the remarkable ages at which so many of them are said to shuffle off their mortal coil.

IN the last presidential election the vote of North Carolina was so close as to cause the republicans to cast upon her the aspersions that she might hereafter be regarded as a doubtful. But State, whatever hopes they may have had in this regard are dispelled by the exodus of the negro population to the Mississippi Valley. It is stated that fully 30,000 have left North and South Carolina in the last few months.

THE old grannies who compose the U. S. Senate are in a great stew because the newspapers always have full reports of the proceedings of their secret sessions and threaten to have the reporters arrested and tried for sedition. They are treading on very dangerous ground, but we dare say they will not go near enough to the precipice to fall over.

CONGRESSMAN WILLSON wants to make desertion honorable by granting pensions to those cowardly creatures who threw down their arms in face of the foe if the disability claimed for was incurred in actual service. Should such a law pass every one of the sneaking scamps would be on the pension roll inside of six months.

IF it had been illegitimate, Mrs. Huff of North Carolina, might with much truth have pleaded that it was such a little one, for the infant that she gave birth to two weeks ago is the smallest on record. It weighs but 1 1/2 pounds and a string of an inch long will almost go around the child's wrist twice. The little mite is in good health.

THE republican mob tried to unseat Clarke, of Alabama, who was elected by 4,500, and give his place to Thibet, his opponent, but there were a sufficient number of republicans manly enough to refuse to ratify the monumental theft proposed and agreed upon.

THE Ohio Legislature has passed the bill to redistrict the State, so that the democrats will have some show in that worst of gerrymandered States by the republicans. The bill insures the democrats 15 of the 21 Congressmen.

Let Justice be Done Though the Heavens Fall.

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)

The Kentucky Advocate in a recent issue printed the lengthy and labored opinion of Judge Morrow, in which he ruled that an injunction should be issued in favor of the present Advocate Company, composed of Samuel G. Boyle, Henry E. Woolfolk and Boyle Gill Boyle, restraining its founder, Jas. R. Marrs, from re-entering the business in Danville. The writer was present when this opinion was read by Judge Morrow, and he premised with an oral statement in which he said substantially that upon a careful examination of the proof in the case he was entirely satisfied that neither party to the suit had been influenced by an improper animus or motive, but that each no doubt thought that he was right and conscientious in his interpretation of the original contract between Marrs and Samuel G. Boyle, and then read the opinion which was printed in the Advocate. To an outsider who did not know Mr. Marrs, or who was not acquainted with the circumstances of the case, the mere reading of this opinion would leave the impression that he had been thwarted in the attempt to violate a contract, therefore, as a matter of simple justice to him, the Advocate ought to have been generous enough to have given him the benefit of the judge's oral statement when it published the lengthy written opinion, because it fully exonerated him from attempting to do anything but what he conceived he had the legal and moral right to do in defense of his own rights in the case. The unwritten code of journalistic ethics, to which Mr. Marrs subscribes and to which he adhered during his long editorial connection with the Advocate, we know full well would have constrained him to have done this, and we can only regret that his successor at the head of its columns failed to come up to this standard of courtesy and fairness.

WILLIAM E. GLADSTONE is a voracious reader of current periodical literature and always reads the advertisements. He subscribes for the American edition of certain American-English magazines, in order that he may obtain from their advertising pages any new ideas to be gleaned therefrom as to American industries and enterprises.

VARIOUS attempts have been made to account for the marvelous influence which Stanley, the African explorer, exerted over his Zanzibari followers, and also over all the natives with whom he was brought into contact during his transafrican expeditions, but perhaps the most feasible is that which attributes it to the peculiar expression of his eyes. One of his European companions in his recent expedition has said that "Stanley first looks at the natives as if he were going to eat them, and then when they give in and do what he wants he looks as if he had done so and was grateful to them for the meal."

THE LOUISVILLE STORE

Goods are arriving daily in large quantities and will be sold at their usual moderate prices. When all of the people understand, as a great many do, that we pay cash for what we buy and get cash for what we sell, thereby saving our customers a good discount at both ends of the line, and that we buy from only the best manufacturers, who put their trademark on every piece of goods because they are not ashamed of their work; when all the people get these facts into their heads they will wear better Dress Goods, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, &c., pay less for them and have more money to jingle in their pockets.

Just think what the little sum of 50 cents can buy at our store: 50 cents can buy 10 yards of good Gloucester and Allen Calico; 50c can buy 10 yds. of good Sea Island Cotton; 50c can buy 7 yards of good yard-wide Bleached Cotton; 50c can buy 8 yards of good Plaid Dress Cottons; 50c can buy 10 yards of Worsted Goods; 50c can buy a new style Crusher Hat; 50c can buy a good flexible Corset; 50c can buy hundreds of other articles in our store too numerous to mention.
